

SELECTION 2

Cat was looking for a place to take his afternoon nap. He saw a nice soft bed near the fireplace. It was warm and comfortable. It was also Dog's bed. But Cat sat right down and fell asleep. Then Dog came back from a long walk outside in the cold. He wanted to lie down on his warm bed.

"Woof," went Dog when he saw Cat. Cat just ignored him. "Woof, woof," Dog repeated, but Cat just stretched.

"I was here first," Cat snarled at Dog.

"But it's my bed," Dog answered. Dog tried to rouse Cat by sticking his nose into the bed. Then Cat hissed and clawed at Dog's nose. "Ow!" yelled Dog. "That hurts."

Dog finally gave up trying to sleep on his bed and walked away in disgust. "That darn Cat is at it again. He has no right to sleep in my bed. Some folks just want everything their way, right or wrong!"
