

Read this fairy tale about a princess and a frog. As you read, think about which things in the fairy tale could really happen and which things could not. Then answer the questions.

The Frog Princess

One day, a princess lost her ball in a deep, dark well. Suddenly, she heard a frog say, "If I get your ball, will you do me a small favor?" The princess agreed. The frog jumped into the well and quickly came back up with the ball.

"What is the favor you want?" the princess asked.

"I want you to kiss me," the frog said. "I am a frog prince. The only way I will ever find a frog princess is if a real princess kisses me."

The princess thought for a moment. She did not want to kiss a frog, but how bad could it be? She placed a small kiss on his head. All of a sudden, she felt odd. The world began to shrink. She tried to call out, but she could only say, "Ribbit." The princess had turned into a frog! The frog prince had finally found his frog princess.
